InfoPorte Outage July 15-16

There will be an outage of InfoPorte, the Enterprise Reporting data warehouse, and the SAS reports accessed through the InfoPorte interface beginning at 6pm on Friday, July 15, and running to 12 noon on Saturday, July 16. This is to implement the new release of InfoPorte 6.7.1. Release notes will be available on Friday. We appreciate your cooperation as we continue to improve InfoPorte.

Wrapping Up the Legacy Systems

In May, after many years of great service, the mainframe computer was shut down, capping a year-long effort to decommission the legacy systems. This new page on the ccinfo.unc.edu website collects in one place instructions for where to find information from legacy systems, and also how access is given for the legacy systems that are still up and running.

Internal Controls July Tip of the Month

Q: Should I use the payroll suspense chartfield string to fund a new hire or give a salary increase?

A: No. Payroll suspense is not designed to be an intentional funding source. Payroll suspense is designed to capture transactions created by a system funding error such as an expired funding source, etc.

Feedback on New ccinfo.unc.edu Website

On May 20, we launched a new version of the ccinfo website that features a number of improvements, all based on suggestions from

ConnectCarolina and InfoPorte users. Among these improvements:

- A powerful search feature
- Easier to find documents and training
- Slimmer menus that make it easier to navigate in the site
- A new template that provides a better experience for tablet and mobile users
